Kiwanis Club

Notes

The Kiwanis Club of Grayling held their usual Monday evening meeting at Grayling High School last night. The Senior Class served them a ham dinner. Members of the club very much enjoyed the dinner.

At a board of directors' meeting following the regular meeting, it was voted to contribute $100 to the fund for the new public address system which has already been installed in the Grayling High School. This contribution along with $100 from the Teachers Club, $400 from the Grayling Women's Club and $25 from the Grayling PTA, leaves but $60 to go to pay the entire cost.

Wesley LaGrow and Lawrence Hunter, who are acting as collection points for the fund for Tom who has succumbed to surgery for the removal of a leg, reported that he had received a total of $42 so far.

JENSEN - BENAWAY VOWS SPOKEN

Miss Gladys Wave Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jensen of Grayling, became the bride of Roy Malcolm Benaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Benaway of Grayling, on Saturday, April 5, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Grayling. The candlelight ceremony was conducted by Elder Roy Newberry of the Reorganized Church, assisted by a pastor, with pink carnations and Easter lilies. About one hundred fifty guests were seated in the church. Mrs. Norval Shuman sang two numbers, "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Miss Jensen chose for her wedding gown a ballroom length crepe fashioned of nylon lace over tulle. The long moulted bodice line with a large butterfly bow at the waistline in back. The full gathered skirt had a nylon tulle insert in the front. The bride's shoulder length veil was held in place by a pearl tiara. She wore a necklace of pearls which was a gift from the groom and carried a white orchid on a white ribbon.

JACK PINE'S STUMP

I usually try to get this written on Saturday, or at best, the Friday before publication. But Friday and Saturday Jack had a cold and let me know that he would feel better. So now it is Sunday night, the deadline, and Jack feels utterly miserable, and has had no ambition to kid himself, would he wait for waiting so long. He feels just awful. God such a sore throat, it hurts to even swallow coffee... and, man oh man, THAT is a sore throat!

Ran into a fellow Saturday afternoon who introduced himself, said he was pleased to meet me, and added that he had been a member of Jack Pine for nearly three years. He further said that he had imagined I would be a "much older man" than I appeared to be. He cheered me up no little bit. Have to remember to tell that to my teen-age boys when they keep saying how darned "old" I am.

Depressing thought: Snow all over the ground, fishing season less than three weeks away. Happy thought: Fishing season less than three weeks away.

Explanatory thought: A good many people have taken high exception to my writings of last week about the "extras" in high school education. Mostly the objections center around my statements concerning Driver's Education, which I deem to be a waste of the taxpayer's money, the teacher's time, the student's time, and a general all-around nuisance. I feel that driver education should be taught at home or in separate driver schools which are set up for that purpose. I do not feel it has a place in modern education in the high schools. That is what I said last week. The reply to that is that "driver's education" is a course which takes the course are better drivers, have fewer accidents, and get lower insurance premiums than those who don't take the course. And that is true.

Mayans and Fear About Cancer

"No disease is more feared than cancer. Yet the thing most to fear when cancer strikes is fear itself, which can lead to procrastination, which in turn can lead to death."

This statement was made by Dr. B. H. Henig, medical advisor of the American Cancer Society in Crawford County, who today exploded a number of dangerous myths about cancer and urged annual checkups as the remedy for fear.

"Fight cancer with a checkup and a check" is the slogan of the Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising crusade which began on April 1.

"There is every reason to have a healthy respect for a disease that killed 250,000 Americans last year," declared Dr. Henig. "But we don't want people to become cancerphobes. We want to expose the unreasoning fears and fatalism that make people shy away from their doctors, because one of the greatest hazards of cancer is belated diagnosis."

"Of those who had cancer last year about 75,000 died unnecessarily because the disease wasn't discovered and treated early enough. But twice that number won't die because they didn't give the doctor a chance."

"The most dangerous cancer myth is the acceptance of doom. It is astonishing how many people still believe that if you get cancer, there is nothing you can do about it. That's why we're trying to hammer home the fact that one of every two cancer cases can be cured. Only a few years ago one in every four cancer patients was cured."

Dr. Henig went on to explode other cancer myths: 1. Cancer is not an inherited sickness. The disease does eventually strike in two out of every three homes. But this does not mean that cancer is in the family. There is no evidence that cancer is hereditary in human beings.

2. Cancer is not contagious. Eighty years of research have not produced a germ for this disease. Viruses may play an indirect part in inciting cancer. But there isn't a single case on record which proves that the disease is "catching."

3. Cancer is not something to be ashamed of, to be kept dark because "nice people don't get cancer." The notion that cancer is a shocking penalty for "the worst sins" is a shocking survival of ignorance and superstition. Cancer can strike anyone.

4. Cancer is not a disease that only strikes older people. While the incidence of cancer increases with age, it can strike at any age. About 10 percent of all cancer cases occur in people under 40.

5. Cancer is not a disease that only strikes people who live in big cities. Cancer can strike anyone, anywhere.

6. Cancer is not a disease that only strikes people who live in big cities. Cancer can strike anyone, anywhere.

7. Cancer is not a disease that only strikes people who live in big cities. Cancer can strike anyone, anywhere.

Trade Show To Have Many Varied Displays

Public Hearing Next Tuesday On Superhighway

A public hearing will be held April 15 in Grayling on a proposed 20-mile relocation route for US-27 through Crawford County. State Highway Commission John C. Mackie announced today.

The US-27 - M-76 junction south of Grayling marks the beginning of the interstate portion of the superhighway which eventually will span the state from the Ohio line to the Mackinac Bridge. The expressway route south of the junction is not included in the system of National Interstate and Defense Highways.

Hearings on the proposed US-27 relocation through Isabella and Clare counties are scheduled for April 8 and 10 in Mt. Pleasant and Harrison, respectively, and a short section south of the Isabella-Clare county line is in the advance planning stage.

Final contracts on work to complete the highway to the Mackinac Bridge are scheduled to be awarded in 1960.

Joseph Wilbur, Hearings Engineer, and Duane Russell, Hearings Representative, will conduct the hearing to be held in the Court House at Grayling beginning at 1:30 p. m.

From a major interchange at Skyline road, the proposed route would run north, parallel to existing US-27, for 3.7 miles with the present US-27 serving as a business route into town from the south. An approach from the east would be provided where the new route would cross M-72.

From the M-72 interchange, the route would continue north to an interchange at M-83 for access to the city from the north. From the M-83 interchange, it would continue north, east of the present highway, to the Oshtemo county line, with a major interchange at Lovells road. Another interchange has been proposed just north of the Oshtemo county line where the expressway would join the existing highway.

Bridges along the route would carry Skyline road, 4-Mile road, Relocated FAS Route 270, M-93 and FAS 171 over the expressway. Others would carry the expressway over M-72 (west of Grayling), the Michigan Central railroad (at Grayling), the AuSable River and the AuSable River east branch (near Grayling).

Service and frontage roads are planned along the route. The expressway will consist of two 24-foot-wide concrete pavements separated by a median strip with right-of-way extending 115 feet from the center of each pavement.

Other roads and streets would be closed at the fenced-in right-of-way.

Grayling track coach Bruce Smith would not make any predictions as to the Viking track team's performance in the upcoming season. Snow and cold weather kept the track team in the confines of the big Grayling gymnasium and then the Easter layoff further cut into practice time.

Expected to score for the Vikings are eight returning lettermen: Russell Balingier, Roger Hatfield, Richard Moore, Jim Perry, Ron Kellogg, Paul Johnson, Don Roberts and Larry Foder. A field event entrant, Wayne Winson, is expected to add to the Viking scoring total.

On Thursday afternoon at 2:30, a triangular meet will be run off the local track with Grayling, East Jordan and Harbor Springs competing.

Life in Northern Michigan

This member of northern Michigan's elk herd stopped a moment for the Conservation Department camera before trotting back into his Pigeon River state forest home. The herd is located northeast of Atlanta and numbers 600-700 animals.

Lansing — Michigan's elk herd which now numbers 600-700 animals, continues to grow in numbers but seems to be having trouble expanding its range.

The bulk of the herd lives in Pigeon River state forest, northeast of Gaylord.

The herd started in Michigan in 1918, when seven animals were trapped at Jackson. They were released near Vanderbilt. Since then, the herd has grown and thrived at various times, but in recent years has been developing strongly.

At present, 90 percent of the herd is enclosed in the area from Gaylord to Atlanta to Onaway to Indian River and back to Gaylord. Also, a concentration may be found west of Black Lake, another near the Hardwood nursery at Boyne Falls, and a few animals have been seen near Cheboygan, Alpena and other northern cities, but home-base remains the area northeast of Gaylord.

Several years ago, blindness began to show up in some of the elk; also some lost their fear of humans and others seemed generally dopey.

Conservation Department research indicated the animals might not be getting enough of certain minerals in their diet. So the elk were treated with a salt lick each year in the elk range.

Whether the salt turned the elk into blind and dopey is unknown, but in recent years very infrequent cases of disease have appeared.

At present, the Department distributes about two tons of salt each year throughout the elk range.

Feldhauser P. T. A. Meeting Report

Feldhauser School P. T. A. group held their April meeting at the school house last Tuesday evening, April 1st.

The sixteen members who were present spent a great share of the evening making plans for the coming Cafeteria Supper which is to be held at the Legion Hall the evening of April 12th. According to the chairman of the committee, there's to be "good eats plenty" such as baked ham and the trimmings, chicken pie, baked beans, vegetable dishes, salads, homemade breads, desserts and of course lots of good hot coffee.

On the refreshment committee for the evening were Mrs. Henry Stephan and Mrs. Barney Vallad. The apron game added $1.82 to our treasury.

Next meeting will be May 5th at 8 p. m.

Zina Vallad, Sec'y.

SEN. POTTER REPORTS

From Washington

SHOULD TEXTILES BE TAGGED? A colorful skein of pros and cons has been unravelling in recent weeks before the Senate Commerce Committee, as we hear testimony on the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act. Senators have been treated to a short course in the properties of cotton, rayon and nylon—indeed, on all natural and man-made fibers—by a parade of expert witnesses.

Already approved by the House, the bill before us would require textile products to carry a stamp, tag or label showing the percentages of various fiber contents in the item. At present, wool is just about the only fiber required by law to be clearly marked.

In shopping for father's shirts, mother's dresses, or items for the family linen chest, it is important that the buyer be protected from fraud. Those who favor the bill point out that rayon, cheapest but weakest textile fiber, frequently is blended with cotton to produce a fabric which in appearance is almost indistinguishable from 100% cotton. In strength and wearing quality, however, it is inferior. Over the long run, cotton producers predict, it will destroy cotton's reputation.

Nylon, famous for durability, often is blended with other fibers to give strength, but the proportion of nylon must be at least 30% if its benefits are to be realized.

Seeds Of Discontent

A good many people were disappointed because the president did not strongly urge much greater cuts in non-defense spending in his budget message. But there's at least one powerful group which takes an opposite view. It consists of numerous members of Congress — and among its leaders are men prominent in the President's own party.

Newsweek tells the story, under the heading "Seeds Of Discontent". Two features in the proposed budget especially disturb and anger them. One is the President's ban against new reclamation and water projects. A Western Senator is quoted as saying: "We've been aiding reclamation projects for 55 years. No one is going to pay a damn bit of attention to the budget. We're going to continue to build the projects."

The other feature that seems to be sending some tremors to the boiling point is the plan for reducing agricultural price supports. It certainly should be obvious to everyone by now that the high support policy that has been tested over 20 years has been an incredibly expensive failure. But, says Newsweek, there is bipartisan agreement that the plan doesn't have "a ghost of a chance."

If this attitude prevails, we will have non-defense spending as usual" piled on top of defense spending on scale so vast as to be beyond human understanding. Then we will have more taxes, higher taxes, or a big wave of inflation — or all three at once. Then we will move toward national bankruptcy and economic chaos. What more could the Communists want? And you can put the blame where it belongs — on Congress.

An Old Story

U. S. News & World Report says: "Two simple facts give you a clue to what has been happening in American industry:

"Fact one is that output of goods in factories for each man-hour of work has risen only a trifle more than 1 percent in the two years since 1955.

"Fact two is that hourly pay of factory workers has in that same period gone up a bit more than 10 percent."

This trend could produce something new in this country — a depression accompanied by high and rising prices. This is the kind of inflation that has destroyed currencies and brought collapse to governments all through history.

Human nature being what it is, we tend to envy people in the big-salary brackets. But here's a case where things aren't always what they seem.

For instance, slugger Ted Williams is the highest paid player in baseball history, at an estimated salary of $135,000 a year. But, according to L. H. Gregory, sport's editor of the Portland Oregonian, he'll only have around $35,000 left after paying his federal and state income taxes. In other words, he does a lot more for the government than he does for himself!

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVANCE OF 23 YEARS AGO

On the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day last Friday, Rev. and Mrs. Hans Juhl were honored at a royal celebration arranged by the congregation of the Danish Lutheran Church. Two former pastors of the church were present, Rev. Peter Kjolhede and Rev. A. C. Klugegaard and the latter officiated at the communion service that was held in the afternoon when the bride and groom repeated their marriage vows. Mrs. Chris Jensen, who played at the wedding of the Juhls in Ludington, presided at the organ and Miss Dora Sorenson who sang, also took part in the singing again. At 8:30 o'clock a banquet of beautiful appetizers took place at Danabod Hall, where members of the congregation gathered for a feast in honor of their beloved pastor and wife. Following the banquet there was group singing, speeches, and songs that had been composed by Miss Ingeborg Hanson and Mrs. Kjolhede in the Danish tongue. It was quite an honor to have Rev. Kjolhede present as he just passed his 91st birthday and he was pastor of the local church for 23 years.

Grayling friends will be shocked to hear of the death of John C. Phelps of Saginaw on Easter Sunday, April 6th, following a heart attack. He was born in Grayling August 5, 1908, the son of Sam, Sr. and Etta Coventry Phelps. They made their home here for many years in what is now the Methodist parsonage. John attended Grayling schools, graduating in 1923. The family moved to Ortonville later. He graduated from Michigan State University. He was a Bell Telephone Company employee for many years in Saginaw. He leaves his wife Katherine, two daughters, Margot and Cynthia, and his mother, who has been making her home with the family for some years. Funeral services were set for Wednesday afternoon in Saginaw.

The Misses Olga and Margrethe Nielsen spent from Friday to Monday visiting their sister Anna in Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Erling Kling and family of Pinconning visited her mother, Mrs. Sena Wiern, Easter.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harold Knudsen and daughter Karen left Grayling Saturday for a two-week vacation with friends and relatives in Chicago and Iowa. During the trip Rev. Knudsen will attend a Lutheran Pastors' Institute at Grandview College at Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Hanson and family of Saginaw spent Easter weekend visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Hanson, and Mrs. Hanson's mother, Mrs. Ed Welch in Frederic.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sales visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Armstrong and son Steve in Kalamazoo, Easter.

Miss Wanda Mikrut and Mrs. Mary Farmer visited Mr. and Mrs. Emil Giegling during the Easter vacation.

New Food Boosts Trout

It's feeding time at the Conservation Department's Wolf Lake fish hatchery as some hungry trout get a serving of dry food pellets. Development of this pelleted fish food has doubled fish plantings because the new food produces faster growth at less expense than former methods. During 1957, some 2,500,000 hatchery trout were released in Michigan lakes and streams.

Dry pelleted foods have found many uses in these days of modern packaging and storage. Dry foods, with high contents of bone, fish, meat and other important dietary requirements may be purchased at local stores to feed cattle, pets and even people. And every G. I. who has served in the armed forces knows well the dried powders that mess chefs magically developed into milk, potatoes and other goodies.

So it was not without precedent that the Conservation Department fisheries workers began probing the idea of dry-pelleted foods for hatcheries. Such dry foods are all water soluble, and fish have to be fed in water. Hence, not only does a proper diet to make fish grow rapidly, and at the same time do away with the old mess, but also the cost of refrigeration and other goodies. So it was not without precedent that the Conservation Department fisheries workers began probing the idea of dry-pelleted foods for hatcheries. Involved in fresh meat feeds?

A nutritional expert was hired several years ago to study the problem. His work was very complicated, involved many long formulas and produced a notable lack of public enthusiasm.

After a few years of testing and study, however, he and his associates came up with a fish diet that could be pelleted, that would save the state up to $80,000 per year, and that would, as promised, do away with the troublesome meat diet.

Today, Michigan's hatcheries and rearing stations all use pelleted foods. Savings have ranged from $50,000-90,000 annually. The food can be stored easily, so hatchery officials no longer have to bite their nails waiting for shipments of fresh meat to arrive. Trout have to eat, and if not fed, they eat each other. Happily, too, trout seem to like the new dry diet—unlike the mess sergeant's victims.

13 Governments In County Census Finds

(Special to the Avalanche)

NEW YORK, Mar. 20 — Less progress has been made in Crawford County in the past five years toward streamlining local government than was made in most counties in the United States.

There are now 13 units of government functioning locally, according to a recent count, as compared with 14 in operation five years ago.

The facts are brought out by the U. S. Department of Commerce, reporting on the 1937 Census of Governments, which was taken by its Census Bureau.

It shows that, for the nation as a whole, striking changes have taken place since 1932. There are now 14,415 fewer units of government than there were then. The biggest drop has been in the number of school districts, the result of annexation, consolidation and abolition.

In Crawford County, there are in operation at present, in addition to the county government, the government of 1 municipality, 6 townships, 5 school districts.

The reduction, over the five-year period, amounts to a 3 percent. It compares with a 12 percent drop nationally, a 17 percent decrease in the East North Central States, and a 24 percent drop in the State of Michigan.

Locally, the change was principally in the number of school districts, which were reduced from 6 to 5.

Much of the elimination of local governmental agencies in the United States in recent years is attributed to the growth of municipalities and the spreading into the suburbs. It has resulted in wholesale redistricting, especially as to urban school districts, which have been expanded to take in more territory.

Partially offsetting this school district reduction was an increase in the number of special districts — bodies set up for specific functions such as fire protection, soil conservation, housing, highways, drainage and the like. They have grown 17 per cent in number in the five years.

The survey shows that there remain throughout the county after all the changes, 102,328 governmental units, of which 50,446 are school districts.

Local Guard News

The annual Federal Inspection of the local National Guard Unit was held on Wednesday, April 3rd. This inspection is held once each year by Regular Army officers for the purpose of seeing how the National Guard Units are being trained.

Inspection was conducted by Colonel Harry C. Fisher, an Assistant Inspector General of the Army. On Wednesday afternoon he inspected Administrative and Supply records of the Detachment, and during the regular drill period inspected personnel standing in ranks and the unit performing dismounted drill.

A class on map reading was held, instructed by Major Philip C. Smith and Sergeant William D. Sloan.

At the conclusion of the drill period, Colonel Fisher addressed the Detachment, commenting on the excellent training given and the high efficiency of the unit as a whole.

town looked brighter. And I felt as pleased as the next fellow and made caustic comment about the fact it should have been done long ago. But then I noticed a local store employee sweeping the sidewalk in front of his place of business. Right into the street. Candy bar wrappers, cigarette packages and other odds and ends. And I fell to wondering just why this merchant couldn't sweep the trash into a box and dump it himself. What a help to the city it would be. And to all of us who have to be in town. I mentioned this to another local business man, and he said the city has trash barrels which haven't been put out as yet. So if the city puts out the barrels, and the merchants sweep their own trash into them, then maybe there wouldn't be a need for letters to be written, would there?

Education At Crossroads

EDUCATION is at another crossroads in Michigan. Increased costs are being weighed against the American principle of an education for all who can benefit from it and turn their talents to the betterment of the nation.

Superimposed over the basic problem is the need for keeping America abreast of the rest of the world. The 1958 problem in Michigan can be spelled out in dollar signs.

Students find it more difficult to make ends meet, with increased fees and mounting costs of living. The taxation field to support education is nearing saturation.

The legislature has become the focal point of the issue. It is required by the constitution to raise by taxation the money necessary to support state government.

The problem for legislators: How to maintain basic governmental services, including higher education, at a time when the tax burden is overweighing and the yield from existing levies is dropping.

Start with elementary and high schools. For years, it was certain that the schools' share of the state sales tax would be more than adequate to cover state aid payments. That certainty ended two years ago.

At that time, local schools said they wanted state aid at the rate of $100 per pupil. To make the formula work, the state advanced $20,000,000 from money due the next year.

To cover the same shortage in 1957-58, the legislature passed increases in the liquor and cigarette taxes. These are still in effect.

The legislature has again promised $100 per pupil for 1958-59 out, with 70,000 more students entering the system, another $16,000,000 will be needed.

Some schoolmen estimate they will need even more in state aid—up to $210 per pupil.

Just to stay even, with the level of the past two years, the state is in deep financial trouble. The major issue is where to find the dollars to stay afloat.

Higher education is generally in the same position.

The first proposed state budget for colleges and universities for 1958-59 totaled $87,000,000, a cut-back of 2.8 per cent or $3,500,000 from current expenditures.

Educators were shocked at the reductions which failed to even consider their requests for a total of $110,000,000 in the face of scientific progress in the Soviet Union.

They said that if the proposal stood, there would be no money for entire programs which were authorized and financed by the legislature over the past three years.

College administrators found it hard to believe the legislature would cut back when it is so important to prepare for the "tidal wave" of students at college level which has been passing through lower grades. They are trying to deal with the greatly increased number of high school graduates in the knowledge that a greater percentage than ever will be seeking advanced training.

Some legislators feel that expansion of college programs has not always been in the most important areas. They have criticized some extension programs and night courses. But educators remind that adult education courses are designed to pay for themselves; that federal monies pay up to 40 percent of the cost of extension programs.

They point out that these activities are pursued to help meet the complex needs of a complex society.

No matter who looks at it, the question raised by lawmakers: Shall the expenditures be made to properly fill the need or shall we do the best we can with the funds available, without increasing the tax load?

Education is just one of many identical problems with the dollar shortage.

The state needs money to complete construction of prisons, to Schools to expand mental health facilities and fit the functions of all agencies to the age.

Finance experts in the legislature are poking through every function of government to find extra money.

The Conlin Plan, authored by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) to extend the 30-day payment of the state's liquor bills to a 90-day credit period has been signed into law. This maneuver is expected to bring in $5,000,000 by May and a total of $16,000,000 to $18,000,000.

Another $60,000 has been requested from the World War II and Korean veterans bonus fund.

The struggle to handle the state's financial problem will continue, probably until the final day of the legislative session. Plans to adjourn in mid April may have to be changed. Whatever the decision regarding this year's program, it will be made only after numerous near-irreversible forces have reckoned with numerous near-im-

Cancer

20,000 of last year's 250,000 deaths occurred in the age group of 15 to 44. And more school children died of cancer than from any other disease.

"In addition to these major misconceptions about cancer, there are a number of myths we can sum up briefly," Dr. Henig said. "Cancer isn't caused by bad eating utensils or fluoridation of water. The normal use of alcoholic drinks does not increase the possibility of cancer striking. And, in a general way, you can forget what the food fanatics try to tell you about cancer. Canned goods and refined flour cannot cause cancer, any more than blackstrap molasses can ward off or grapes cure it."

The last misconception, by the way, is one of the cures of cancer quackery. The charlatan thrives on the superstitions and fears that surround the subject of cancer. People who are in dread of seeing the doctor because he might discover a cancer, often go to quacks — at the cost of much more than money. If cancer should be present, every day wasted with fake cures reduces
